

RING OUT THE OLD
RING IN THE NEW

A new feature was added in Daly City to the usual New Year celebration when the chimes rang out the old year and rang in the new. This is practically the only community in this state, or in the west for that matter, which can furnish the old songs, hymns and carols for Christmas and New Year.

The sound and rhythm of each tone is modeled on the original Westminster chimes of London.

Tuesday evening a number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Trier were entertained at their home, 158 Woodrow street, which was tastefully decorated in holiday colors. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing cards and games, and after the new year had been properly welcomed a tempting buffet lunch was enjoyed. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ford, Mr. and Mrs. John Matzek, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Canine, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Rusting, Mr. and Mrs. John Dempsey, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ferro, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Grieder, Mr. Tony Matzek, Mr. Loyal Ingersoll and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Trier.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Landini, of Winchester street, entertained a group of friends on New Year's eve, having as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ryan, of Redwood City, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reinhart and children, Carlos and Helen, Attorney Limpert, wife and children, of Burlingame, Mr. and Mrs. W. Fuhr and children, Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan, of Redwood City, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Gillies.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter White, of 50 Theta avenue, entertained a group of friends on New Year's eve. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing cards, after which dainty refreshments were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. B. Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cochran, Miss Blanch Rollins and Harold White.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Campbell, of Santa Cruz avenue, entertained about fifty of their friends at their home New Year's eve. The evening was spent in dancing and at midnight a tempting supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dorn, of Risel street, entertained a group of friends at a New Year's eve party. The evening was spent in dancing and singing, and at midnight a buffet supper was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. William Bolger, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fields, Mr. and Mrs. Gene De Riene, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lunt, Mr. and Mrs. P. Bohrer, of Berkeley, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Ny.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McDermott, of Templeton avenue, were among the guests who attended a New Year's eve party and enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner at midnight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. McGunnigle, of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wood, of Knowles avenue, entertained a group of their friends New Year's eve at Topsy's at the Beach. Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening and until the early hours of the morning. Those present to enjoy this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Ogilvie and Miss Ann Stewart, of Redwood City, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Foss and Mr. William Best.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansen, of 64 Acton street, entertained at a very enjoyable New Year's eve party. The evening was spent in dancing and the following program was enjoyed: Mr. and Mrs. Simister, Mr. Williams, Miss Norma Evans and Miss Genevieve Rice favored the guests with vocal solos, Mr. Ashley favored with a recitation, Miss Dorothy Rice entertained with fancy dances, and Miss Alberta Freeman and Miss Clarice Hansen rendered a piano duet. At midnight supper was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. R. Ashby, Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. George Ohman, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sadler, Mr. and Mrs. George Felsch, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar De Wall, Mr. and Mrs. H. Evans, Dr. and Mrs. McCutcheon, Misses T. Simons, A. Freeman, L. McCutcheon, C. Hanson, Dorothy Rice, Norma Evans; Messrs. Emory Rice, Tom Evans, Earl Mitchell, Richard Christian, Curtis Riley and Ray Simister.

AUTO CRASHES INTO GARDEN

On New Year's morning about 5:30 a machine owned by A. Russell, of 74 Bepler street, ran away from in front of his home, jumping the curb and going down a steep incline into the back yard of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dormoy, of Mission Circle, cracking their back fence and bringing their pretty rose garden.

WESTERN PACIFIC
WINS LONG FIGHT

The Western Pacific Railroad has finally won its long fight against the Southern Pacific's "orphan" spur track in San Mateo county.

William H. Hunt, special master in chancery, has filed his decision with the Federal Court, recommending a permanent injunction against the Southern Pacific to stop further construction of the spur or any use of it. Judge Hunt, who is a former U. S. circuit judge, severely criticized the Southern Pacific several times in the decision.

He held that the track construction was begun "on a Saturday with the greatest of secrecy" and was nothing but an attempt to "hamper" the Western Pacific.

The track he ruled, "serves nothing and is not an industrial, spur, siding or any other kind of track." Technically, Judge Hunt based his decision on the fact that the Southern Pacific obtained no certificate of public necessity and convenience before starting the spur.

The decision was filed with Federal Judge Frank H. Kerrigan, who is expected to grant the permanent injunction without delay. A temporary injunction had stopped the Southern Pacific activities during the chancery hearings.

REQUEST BIDS FOR BAYSHORE WORK

Bids are to be opened during this month on sixteen state highway projects, having an approximate total cost of $4,500,000. This is the largest volume of state highway work yet offered to contractors in any one month in the history of the California state highway system.

In announcing the program for January highway offerings, B. B. Meek, director of the department of public works, stated that the large program was in accordance with state and national policies to increase public work as a means of decreasing unemployment.

Among the projects for which bids will be submitted will be the grading of 7.4 miles of the Bayshore highway from San Mateo to Redwood City. Bids will be opened January 8. Also the grading and paving of 4.4 miles of the Coast highway from San Francisco Creek to San Antonio road; bid opening, January 8.

BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED
DURING THE PAST MONTH

City Clerk B. C. Ross reports the issuance of the following building permits during the past month:

Jas. Carlo, 199 Los Banos avenue, one room addition.

V. Bjorkman, 535 Hanover street, five rooms; 531 Hanover street, five rooms.

Wm. Shulsen, 200 Hillcrest Drive, garage.

Frank L. McAfee, 6654 Mission street, store and six living rooms.

B. Milano, 75 Hillcrest Drive, store and six rooms.

E. Evangelisti, 468 Vista Grande avenue, one room addition.

RETROSPECTIVE ANALYSIS IS PRESBYTERIAN THEME

The title sounds learned, but it is only another way of stating the text for next Sunday's New Year sermon in the Presbyterian church. The text for the discourse is, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." I Samuel 7:12. The music for the service is being provided by Mr. Angus Campbell and his son George Campbell.

The services last Sunday were made interesting by the appearance in the pulpit of Mr. Ira T. Myrick, a business man of Watsonville, and Mr. Neil B. Weir, a prospective missionary to South America. The music was provided by Miss Mildred Roof, Miss Mildred Swan and Mr. Windham Jones, basso.

K. OF C. THEATRE
PARTY DECEMBER 8

Final arrangements are being made for the big K. of C. show at the Daly City Theatre next Wednesday evening, January 8.

Community singing, talks and a long string of worth-while vaudeville acts will make up the greater part of the program.

The Daly City Council K. of C. are grateful to all those who have helped them in making the staging of this show possible, and assure those attending an evening of enjoyment.

Rancher Drowned in Ditch
Missing four days, the body of Charles D. Cesbro, aged 79, of Stockton, former San Jose rancher, was found last Monday in an irrigation ditch, where he had apparently been drowned. The body was found by two small boys.

Start with a Clean Slate

: ANOTHER YEAR :

Once again the clock of time has made the circuit of a year and starts anew. One looks back over the period of months to review what has been accomplished.

Have I made any progress? Have I contributed anything? Or have I been content only to exist from day to day, satisfying myself with the thought that tomorrow I will begin? Are the world and my fellow beings better off for my having lived, or am I just a bit of passive flotsam, content to be borne on life's stream without a care for my ultimate destination?

These are disturbing thoughts to those who are secretly aware that the year has been wasted; to those who are denied the satisfaction of knowing that the year has not been entirely in vain. Hastily the new year's resolutions are made that not another of the rapidly passing years shall end without a definite attainment. Thus meritorious resolutions are formed and a new page turned.

Well and good, if the resolutions are lived up to, the new page used. But, too often, it is the case that with the passage of time and the easing of the conscience, the determinations are forgotten, the new page left as blank as its predecessor, changed from its newness into a duplicate of the old.

Unless the resolutions are continuously renewed, a start and a bit of progress made each day towards the resolved attainment, then, without realization, another year will have passed and the regret over the wasted period renewed. Do not let good resolves end with the resolutions, but choose a goal, make a start and keep on pushing. The going may be slow, but the destination is certain if the stride is always in one direction.

PASTOR PRESENTS
INTERESTING TOPICS

Beginning next Sunday night, Rev. Charles Woessner, of the Calvary Baptist Mission, will take up interesting topics for a five minute discussion. Next Sunday night, January 5, his five minute topic will be, "Did God Create Woman to Obey and Serve Man—Her Master?" In this discussion the pastor will touch on the following thoughts: (a) Is the modern woman living in a hysteria of supposed freedom? (b) Is the modern woman a menace in the general affairs of the world and in the church?

Rev. Woessner's sermon for the morning will be, "The Great People of the Earth and Who They Are." In the evening he will preach on "Is Heaven a Place or an Idea?"

The Wednesday evening prayer meeting topic will be, "The Prophecies of Christ and Their Fulfillment."

A candle light service was held at the Calvary Baptist Mission on Tuesday evening, being well attended and thoroughly enjoyed.

AMERICAN LEGION FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP TO BE DECIDED

World war veterans from Santa Rosa and Antioch will settle the American Legion football championship at Kezar stadium, San Francisco, on Sunday, January 5. The Santa Rosa and Antioch elevens have eliminated all other American Legion teams from the competition in Northern California and will now settle the championship title for this section of the state.

LIVE CHRISTMAS TREE OWNER OF BURLINGAME WINS AWARD

George E. Kippenberg, 42 Park road, Burlingame, was awarded a prize by the California Outdoor Christmas Tree League. Kippenberg submitted photographs of his tree to the league, which investigated and awarded him the prize. The prize, a novel one, is a cypress tree taken from the top of Mt. Davidson. The tree has been atop the mountain for more than fifty years and is a beautiful specimen.

JEFFERSON STARS
FORFEIT CONTEST

The Jefferson All Stars were scheduled to oppose the Sequoia Club nine last Sunday on the Spreckels diamond, but the diamond was in poor condition, so they forfeited the contest.

Three of the local nine's best players decided to accept an offer to play with faster company during the preceding week. Joe Drucker, shortstop, and Fred Strand, catcher, joined the Ferrera Hardware aggregation. Pat Sloan, first baseman, returned to the Kahn and Keville team.

Drucker turned in a fine exhibition at Burlingame last Sunday, accepting eight chances without an error. It was rumored, after the game, that he was to be signed up by a Coast League team.

The All Stars still have a good team left. The pitchers, Keagle and Thompson, have displayed a world of ability and should improve as the season progresses. If both men are used in a game, the opposing batters are usually helpless, due to the entirely different style of the twirlers.

The team as a whole is hitting at a terrific pace at present. In the three contests that they have played, the aggregation has collected 43 hits in 102 times at bat, for a percentage of .421. "Mo" Plansky is leading with an individual average of .636.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH

There will be both morning and evening services at the Daly City Methodist church next Sunday. Sunday school will begin at 9:45, and at 11 o'clock Rev. Earnest MacConoughey of Berkeley will preach and conduct morning worship. The Epworth League will meet at 6:30 p. m., and will be followed by the regular preaching service in charge of the pastor, Rev. L. D. Cook.

The Christmas services at the Daly City Methodist church were most pleasing and were well attended. The music and the elaborate lighting effects created by Mr. Steinbach were the best seen here and were enjoyed by all.

COUNTY BOOSTERS
REPORT ACTIVITY

The following report has been addressed by the San Mateo County Chamber of Commerce, of which Fred H. Drake is president, and Roscoe D. Wyatt, secretary, to the San Mateo county board of supervisors:

Gentlemen: At this stock-taking time of the year the San Mateo County Chamber of Commerce is glad to give this accounting for the year just ending and present for your information a brief survey of things done.

During the year 1929 the County Chamber of Commerce has:

Prepared an outstanding County Floral Exhibit for the 1929 California State Fair, and for the first time took floral sweepstakes premium for the state of California. First premiums were taken for chrysanthemums, roses, sweetpeas, carnations and strawflowers. The county booth itself was awarded a large cup as a feature exhibit and the immense floral Zeppelin which attracted so much attention was awarded a special prize.

Completed a one reel industrial motion picture, paid for entirely without the use of tax moneys.

Distributed this one reel motion picture presenting the industrial advantages offered by the peninsula bayshore. Much of this film was taken from an airplane and shows the industrial acreage bordering the deep water channel of the San Francisco bay, and adjoining rail, interurban, highway and airway transportation. The availability of natural gas, electric power, fuel oil and water is shown along with scores of industrial plants at South San Francisco, Millbrae, San Mateo and Redwood City. Educational facilities are emphasized and to these and the plentiful opportunities for recreation is attributed a "turn-over" of less than one per cent in skilled labor. Pointing out that a western market of more than ten millions of people is most economically reached from this region, and that the world market is a growing one on the Pacific coast, this one reel film is directed to industrial executives looking toward the establishment of western plants, and general distribution is not sought. This film, called "Industrial Facilities 'Down the Peninsula,'" is sent directly to industrial organizations and executives.

Co-operated with San Francisco organizations in "Industrial Week" by arranging for exhibits and models for San Mateo county industries shown in window displays in San Francisco. Maintained and improved county exhibit in Arcade building at San Carlos on the Peninsula highway. Many hundreds of people have visited

ODDS AND ENDS OF WEEK'S NEWS

Application of bus lines to operate buses on the Bayshore highway, scheduled for hearing before the California Railroad Commission, has been postponed to February 18. Much discussion has been aroused by the application of bus companies to do business on the new highway, and there have been several protests filed.

Governor Young has notified President Hoover that California's state, city and county public works program for the next twelve months would total in excess of $200,000,000.

Mrs. Vista Mayhew, of San Francisco, suffered a broken neck in an automobile accident near South San Francisco last Saturday night while returning from the Stanford-Army football game. She will recover, but may be forced to spend a year in a hospital cot as a result of the accident.

Robert Freeman, prohibition agent wounded in a raid at Napa, is well known in San Mateo county, having participated in a number of actions against liquor violators in the coast district north of Half Moon Bay. He was in a raiding party which gathered up eight stills shortly before Christmas, when prohibition agents made a series of raids along the San Mateo coast.

San Mateo county, with ninety-one grade crossings of railroads, had eighteen crossing accidents during the past year, it is shown in the annual report of the State Railroad Commission.

San Mateo county's educational system is one of the most economically administered in the San Francisco bay district, and last year cost $72 per pupil, as against $111 in San Francisco, it is shown by figures released from the office of Walter E. Morgan, chief of the division of research, department of education, at Sacramento.

YEAR OF PROGRESS
FOR STATE BANKS

The year just closed has been one of progress and achievement for our California banks, considering the extraordinary number and variety of problems with which they were confronted. Each problem was met with intelligence and fortitude by our bankers and in spite of some temporary recessions in business, substantial general progress was made, according to Albert A. Rosenshine, Superintendent of Banks, in a statement issued yesterday.

"Our New Year takes on added significance as we look back over the past, for 1929 was not only a year of actual development and improvement, but it closed a decade of achievement which is unparalleled in our previous banking history.

"In 1920 the total banking resources of our state, represented by 725 banks and 170 branches, were $2,500,000,000. Today we have 450 banks and 853 branches, representing approximately $4,500,000,000 in resources. We have thus increased the number of banking establishments by 408 and our banking resources by approximately $1,750,000,000. The resources of the average banking establishment have increased from approximately $2,500,000 in 1920 to approximately $3,500,000 at the beginning of 1930, and the deposits have shown a parallel satisfactory growth. In 1920 they totaled about two billion, and at the present time they are more than three billion.

"The account of the individual has likewise increased. In 1920, had deposits been evenly distributed to all classes, each man, woman and child in this state would have claimed $507. A similar distribution now would show $565. In 1920 our banks had $1,382,000,000 loaned out to their various clients. The amount has since grown to $2,411,000,000, and investigations by our research division reveal that these amounts have been divided about equally between real estate and farm loans on the one hand and commercial loans on the other.

Aside from the amount actually on deposit in our banks, the amount invested in banking enterprises show a phenomenal gain. In 1920 the paid-in capital, surplus and undivided profits of our banks was $280,303,000. Today it is $450,745,000—an added investment of $170,000,000.

"While this growth in banking business was being experienced, extensive changes in bank ownership and management was taking place. At the beginning of the decade banking in California was done largely by

CROCKER P. T. A. TO HOLD
INITIAL MEETING OF YEAR

A very interesting meeting has been planned for the opening meeting of this year of the Crocker P. T. A., which will be held next Thursday, January 9, in their new home, the Daly City Theatre building, on Mission street.

The topic of the day will be "Thrifty," and the officers of the association are certain everyone attending will take home some thought which will be beneficial in their home as well as their P. T. A. Mrs. Walter Johnson, of San Mateo, Thrift chairman of the Seventeenth district, will be the speaker for the day. A large attendance is expected, as this being the first meeting of the new year, the mothers of the pupils of Crocker school are anxious to know what the plans are for the coming year.

Mrs. J. Standish and Mrs. J. Swan, hostesses for the afternoon, are planning a novel idea in the line of refreshments which all will enjoy.

MANY SEEKING BERTH AS SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT

Many applications from all parts of California, Nevada, Utah and Oregon for the position of superintendent of the San Mateo Union high school district, to succeed Frank H. Boren, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident early last month, are being received by the board of trustees, according to William H. Taylor, secretary of the board. The applications will be investigated and the advice of prominent college educators will be sought before any selection is made, Taylor said.

WORLD WAR VETERANS'
COMMANDER TO BE HONORED

State Commander Clarence L. Kincaid, of Hollywood, will be the guest of honor at a state-wide banquet to be given in San Francisco, Saturday, January 11, by the San Francisco County Council of the American Legion. The affair will be in charge of Milton D. Sapiro, commander, and Joseph Claridge, adjutant of the County Council, which is composed of representatives of each of the American Legion Posts in San Francisco, of which there are twenty.

SIDELIGHTS

Omar D. Gray noted Missouri publisher and newspaper broker, also gives many lectures before editorial bodies. He declares that his terms are $100 a lecture, with a guarantee of satisfaction. But, he adds, no one is ever satisfied, so he receives nothing.

R. B. McLure of Oakland, Calif., seems to think that his wife is not quite up to the desired standard in temperament and habits. In his divorce suit he charged that she was "sullen, mean, irritable, morbid, disagreeable, nasty, gruesome, cool, bitter, heckling, jealous, peevish, loathsome, insulting, brazen, miserly, gluttonous, temperamental, selfish, contemptuous, inattentive, uncivil and inconsiderate."

Anything can happen in a newspaper office. Rummaging for "fillers" for a Sunday afternoon edition someone on the Chicago Herald-Examiner got hold of a story that one Rocco Maggio would be tried for assault next day. Next day, however it was discovered that Maggio had been murdered two months before.

St. Louis lady called across the fence to complain of loud swearing emanating from a neighboring house. A small boy explained: "Aw, that's only dad; he's late for church and can't find his prayer-book."

We read of Irish bulls, Wall Street bulls and the kind that is shot by politicians. But the weightiest bull known was received in Chicago recently from the Orient. It is of stone and weighs 40 tons. It guarded the palace of Sargon II of Assyria 3,700 years ago and will adorn Chicago's new Oriental Institute. Because its largest piece, weighing 20 tons, could not pass through the Pennsylvania Railroad's tunnels, it was detoured 1,500 miles between New York and Chicago.

Although he was recently adjudged the prize baby of Fayetteville, Ark., 4-year-old Bernie Beck must face life under a cruel handicap. His mother is serving a life term in the penitentiary for killing his father.

Some queer roads lead to the stage. Mrs. Bridget Farry, chambermaid in the hotel in which the New York gambler, Rothstein, was killed, and a recent witness at the trial, in which George McManus was acquitted of the charge of murder, will soon appear in a Broadway play. She will act the part of a chambermaid.

Tradition has been upset again. In construction circles it is said that in building a skyscraper one life is lost for every floor, but the new 68-story Chrysler building in New York was erected without a single fatality.

Some kind of a prize is seemingly due Eppy Hazard, aged 75, of Courtland, N. Y., who is 45 years behind with his alimony payments. If any one can beat this record, let him step forward.

More than 100 amateur mountain climbers lost their lives in the Alps during the past summer, through refusing to take guides.

1930 LICENSE PLATES COME THROUGH MAIL

The California postman who struggled last week with his load of Christmas packages is now facing a new burden in more than 150,000 sets of automobile license plates consigned to motorists throughout the state by the Division of Motor Vehicles.

This approximate number has gone into the mails since Santa closed his gift bag and trekked northward while additions are being added to the postman's burden at the rate of some 20,000 sets daily.

Some of the applications for these plates were received as early as November 15, but shipment was postponed until after Christmas by a special arrangement with the postal authorities because of the heavy congestion of the mails.

The plates, which are being sent out in response to "mail orders" forwarded by motorists who do not wish to stand in line at the counters, will go to every section of the state. They are sent direct to the address of the motorist as it appears on the certificate of registration turned in with his fee.

Division officials warn motorists to see that the address given on the certificate is the address at which they now reside.

They may be delayed otherwise in receiving their plates. It will be unlawful to drive after January 15th with 1929 plates unless the driver has applied for new ones. Double fees must be paid after January 31st.

The fee for new plates is $3 but if the motorist has paid off his contract with the dealer or finance company during the year an extra $1 is required as a transfer fee.

PROHIBITION DEATHS

In a series of articles recently published the Washington Herald printed the names of 1,360 persons said to have been killed as a result of violations of prohibition laws in the United States.

The list includes both law violators and enforcement officers, and purports to be the total fatalities recorded since the Volstead Act became effective, nearly ten years ago.

Regardless of one's views concerning prohibition, it is deplorable that its enforcement should be accompanied by such loss of human lives.

Probably there would be less room at the top if there were an elevator running.

FISH AND GAME NOTES

By J. H. NEUSTADT

A biological survey has recently been made of the Salton Sea with a view of stocking it with edible fish. The discovery was made that sometime there was a vast inland sea extending from the lower California coast to far beyond the west end of the present sea.

Deposits contain great beds of fossil shark teeth and oysters one foot in length.

In 1835 the sea was 100 miles long, 35 miles wide, and 85 feet deep, whereas a few years ago it was only 47 miles long, 17 miles wide and about 45 feet deep at the deepest point.

It is now increasing in area and depth, the water being 3 feet higher than shown by the previous survey.

Two rivers enter the sea and the silt brought down chokes the mouth so the small fish are a prey to the numerous pelicans and gulls on these mud flats.

The channels are now to be kept open, and with the striped bass which the state contemplates planting, there may be a new fishing ground created for southern sportsmen to recompense them for the loss of the formerly famous fishing off Catalina Island.

It is not generally known that the commercial interests are antagonistic to conservation and hence the sportsmen and conservationists are compelled to be eternally vigilant.

It is further not generally known that the wonderful work done by the Fish and Game Commission is not supported by taxation, but entirely by hunting and angling licenses, fines imposed by the courts for violations, trapper licenses, deer hunters, commercial hunting, club operators, and fish canners taxes.

It is evident by the foregoing that the Division is making earnest effort to fulfill the duties wisely imposed by law. By placing emphasis on protection, law enforcement, artificial reproduction, education and scientific research, it is making sure a future for fish and game resources.

An agitation is being started by a soon to be adopted referendum to put on the ballot the question of plenary powers to a committee to be appointed by and removable by the governor, the same to have absolute power over all fish and game matters.

Owing to the difficulty of having passed by the legislature laws favorable to conservation, it is deemed desirable to restrict such law making to a small committee who will make a scientific study of the questions involved rather than leave it as at present to a large body of men whose knowledge of the subject is limited, and whose interests are frequently in opposing directions.

The Hearst chain of newspapers has recently made an attack on lobbying in general, and this includes the Federal capital and state capital, of which our Sacramento is included.

This is acknowledged to be a major reason for the failure of a fine draft of conservation proposals at the last legislature, and the sportsmen and conservationists in general are determined that it shall not occur again.

Our sister state Oregon has set a good example by giving such powers to its commission, and with splendid results.

Their daily limits are larger than ours, and yet thousands of anglers are daily engaged, and the commission is also taking enormous quantities of eggs for hatchery purposes.

This is accomplished by fish preserves in a portion of each water reserved under the plenary powers of the commission granted by the legislature, and the commission exercises this power by closing certain water, regulating limits, and lengthening or curtailing seasons.

The fish seem to sense immunity from danger while in refuge waters, and thus a safe portion of the supply remains untouched each season.

If the voters recognize this great good and the proposal is passed, California may look forward to such an improvement that the good old days may again return.

Singing in grand opera is not considered an occupation presenting any great physical hazards, but Maria Jeritza of the Metropolitan recently met with two injuries on the stage. In one her hand was crippled from a blow from a pistol, and in the other she was accidentally stabbed with a wooden dagger, causing a painful wound in the chest.

THE TIPPING CUSTOM

While many attempts have been made to eradicate the practice, even by the passage of laws, the tipping habit persists, through lack of courage on the part of the public.

Originally, no doubt, the custom of giving tips to servants was inspired by kindly motives, but it has long since become a species of petty graft. Many employers of low-class help pay miserably small wages, with the knowledge that tips from customers will supply the deficiency. Employees accept the small wage with the same understanding. Consequently the public pays in the aggregate vast sums for which no service whatever is rendered.

The effect of the tipping system is wholly bad, as those who accept the gratuities must lose somewhat in self respect, while those who pay them do so simply because it is expected and they do not wish to appear stingy.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

WHEREAS default has been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured by, and in the performance of the covenants contained in that certain Deed of Trust dated the 13th day of March, 1926, made, executed and delivered by J. WHEREAS default has been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured by, and in the performance of the covenants contained in that certain Deed of Trust dated the 26th day of January, 1927, made, executed and delivered by C. B. RICH and HERTHA M. RICH, his wife, and J. J. FAHEY and LUCY J. FAHEY, his wife, as Trustees, to STOCKHOLDERS AUXILIARY CORPORATION, a corporation, beneficiary, which Deed of Trust was recorded in the office of the County Recorder of San Mateo County, State of California, on the 18th day of March, 1927, in Volume 290 of Official Records, at page 44 et seq., San Mateo County Records; and

WHEREAS, after proceedings duly had in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the City and County of San Francisco, the name of the STOCKHOLDERS AUXILIARY CORPORATION was changed to NATIONAL BANKITALY COMPANY, a corporation, on April 1st, 1927, a certified copy of which decree was heretofore recorded in the County of San Mateo, State of California; and

WHEREAS, said Deed of Trust, through mesne conveyances, was duly assigned, transferred and delivered to BANK OF ITALY NATIONAL TRUST AND SAVINGS ASSOCIATION, who is now the true and lawful owner and holder of said Deed of Trust and the debt which it secures; and

WHEREAS, the lawful owner and holder of said Deed of Trust and the debt thereby secured has applied to and directed the said Trustee in writing to execute the trust by said Deed of Trust created, and to make sale pursuant thereto; and

WHEREAS, notice of breach of the obligations of the Trustors has been recorded as is provided for by law, and more than three months have elapsed since the said recordation, and said Trustee deems it best to sell said premises and estate as a whole now remaining subject to said Deed of Trust in order to fulfill the purposes thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that on Wednesday, the 15th day of January, 1930, at the hour of 10:10 o'clock A. M. thereof, at the front door of the San Mateo County Court House, situated in the City of Redwood City, County of San Mateo, State of California, the NATIONAL BANKITALY COMPANY, a corporation, as Trustee, will, under and pursuant to the aforesaid Deed of Trust, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in United States gold coin, the following described real property mentioned in said Deed of Trust, situated in the City of Daly City, County of San Mateo, State of California, and more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Lot 1 in Block 18 as designated on the map entitled "Map No. 3 Vista Grande, San Mateo Co., Calif." which map was filed in the office of the Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, on May 4th, 1908, in Liber 6 of Maps at page 13.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

Pedestrians Wear Lights

Irate drivers of automobiles soon will be yelling "Lights!" at pedestrians if a growing custom becomes universal. Traffic has become so congested in London that wary pedestrians are rigging themselves with lights to warn motorists of their presence in the streets. One type of rear light consists of an electric light and reflector mounted on a luminous card worn on the back and suspended from the shoulders by a cord.

Revolutionary Cannon

A cannon of the Revolutionary war period has been unearthed at Fort Ticonderoga, N. Y., where it had been buried since the British blew up the fort in 1777 during General Burgoyne's invasion which ended in defeat at the battle of Saratoga. The cannon, of either French or English iron, was dug up by Robert Pell of Ticonderoga and Washington, and Milo P. King, who were excavating on the site of the old fort, which is being restored by Howard Pell of New York.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

California's 1930 State Fair will again feature a Far Western States Exposition, on a scale even greater than during the fair this year. It was announced by Charles W. Paine, secretary of the State Agricultural Society. Paine said there are prospects of having practically every State in the West represented with exhibits at Sacramento.

Final elimination of the treacherous Cloverdale grade on the Redwood highway loomed as a reality with the announcement at the general offices of the Redwood Empire Association in this city that California Highway Commission engineers are prepared to commence the survey of the new route between that point and Hopland along the east bank of the Russian River. Commencement of the survey, which presages the actual work of construction, marks the culmination of a lengthy campaign, carried on by the Redwood Empire Association for the relocation of the Cloverdale-Hopland highway unit.

Permission has been granted by the Railroad Commission to Southern Pacific Company to construct a passing track at grade across Perry street in Roseville.

Location of one of the world's largest copper refining plants in the vicinity of Long Beach harbor is anticipated by local interests, if the Interstate Commerce Commission follows a recent recommendation by Examiner Edgar Smith that freight rates be reduced between Arizona and the local port.

The Railroad Commission denied the petition of California Water Service Company for a rehearing of the valuation proceedings involving the Fresno city water properties of that company, which the city proposes to acquire by condemnation. In its decision the commission on September 4 last fixed the just compensation to be paid by the city for those properties at $2,327,000, as against a claim presented by the company, including paving, of $3,058,754.

The State has let a contract for the last link in its restoration of old Fort Ross on the Sonoma County coast, where the Russians landed in 1811 and built a church and a fort and other buildings. The concluding restoration will be the rebuilding of the ancient stockade about the landmark. It will be constructed of hewn timber and will follow the ancient style.

Ten thousand dollars has been lopped off the tax bills of property owners in the Oceano and Halcyon districts of San Luis Obispo County by action of the Board of Supervisors. The action was taken at a special meeting following protests of taxpayers, and an investigation showed that through a clerical error double assessments had been made for an improvement district in the area.

Inspection of Del Norte harbor was made recently by Colonel P. M. Robbins, district engineer of the War Department in charge of Northern California.

Instructions to fight the grant of a certificate of public necessity and convenience to the Consolidated Motor Transport Company to operate a motor truck freight service to serve Moraga, Lafayette, Walnut Creek, Danville and San Ramon were given by the Board of Supervisors to District Attorney A. B. Tinning. The Supervisors have consistently and until recently successfully opposed all commercial passenger and freight lines being allowed to operate over the county highways, contending that the highways were too narrow and therefore too dangerous for the operation of such services. The truck company's application is now pending before the Railroad Commission.

Proponents of the fight to have Albany annexed to Berkeley have had their tax assessments increased 100 per cent as the result of their activities in the recent annexation campaign, according to charges made to Thomas E. Marren, retiring president of the Albany Taxpayers' League, sponsors of the fight. The complaints stipulated that those who favored annexation faced tax assessment increases, while those who fought the issue were not affected. City councilmen are said to be unanimously opposed to the annexation proposal which was defeated at a recent election.

Richmond schools will not be seriously affected by a ruling of the State Department of Education holding that public schools are not permitted to charge students for towels, lockers or supplies used in the course of studies or physical education, according to local authorities. A charge is made for towels and students must purchase padlocks for lockers, which may later be resold to the school. Aside from these items the ruling does not hit any practice of the local schools, it was said.

The installation of gates and safety improvements at all grade crossings along the peninsula highway are expected, as the result of a survey completed recently by inspectors for the Railroad Commission and engineers of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. According to authorities of the Railroad Commission, safety devices probably will be placed at seven major crossings.

The State Railroad Commission recently authorized the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to purchase the Modesto Gas and Light Company at a price of $38,390.

PRAIRIE DOGS

The prairie dogs live in holes under the ground and during the winter they sleep.

But it was not so cold where they were and they were awake.

When a rainy day comes along they all come out of the ground and fix their homes—unless it is cold, cold weather.

They dig in the ground and get nicely shaped holes and then they get high arches around the holes.

This keeps out the rain and dirt, for the rain runs down the outside of the arches and cannot get into the holes.

They dig only when it rains, though of course, when the sun is shining they are often playing around outside.

But when it rains how hard they do work! They dig with their front feet and shove the dirt back with their hind feet. Then they punch the soft muddy earth with their noses and this makes their fine arches.

On a rainy day they will have dirt and mud all over themselves, too.

Their faces will be as dirty as you can imagine, and they yap delightedly all the time.

They were yapping and chatting among themselves as they worked on this particular rainy day.

"Our family has always been clever," said Paul Prairie Dog, "for we have known enough to work when it was best for our homes and best for ourselves.

"When the earth is dry we could do nothing with it, and our family found that out years and years ago, so we have no trouble at all."

"I love getting all muddy," said Patty Prairie Dog.

They loved digging with their feet, and what fun they did have. Later on the rain stopped but they kept on working as long as the ground was soft.

Then, when everything had been finished and the ground was once more becoming hard they talked of their spring plans.

"We'll have to be doing all sorts of things soon," they said.

"Oh, yes, our lovely winter dreams are almost over."

"Why do you call your dreams winter ones?" asked Patty of Snooky who had just made that remark.

"Because they come in the winter," said Snooky, yapping and laughing.

"Of course," said Patty, "I never thought about them that way. But still dreams are dreams, aren't they, whether they come in summer or winter?"

"I suppose so," said Snooky, "but as I only have them in the winter I call them winter dreams."

The little prairie dogs all yapped and barked and played and dug some more and then they decided they had better take a rest.

And you've never seen any little creatures go to sleep much more quickly than they did.

They were all asleep in a flash. It was very cunning to see them!

A Jolly Game

Here is a game you may like to play, either by writing down your answers or by just saying them. In the first case the papers must bear a list of names, and spaces will be left opposite for answers; in the second, these names may just be read out by one who is not playing. The game consists of finding a suitable material to dress the people named, having reference in some way to their occupation. Thus, "What should the artist dress in? Canvas"; the hunter in duck; the gardener in lawn; the editor in print; the hairdresser in haircolor; the banker in checks; the prisoner in stripes; the page in buttons; the dairyman in cheesecloth; the photographer in blue print.

Ditto for You

Laughter is absolutely forbidden in this game. While the players all sit silently in a circle the leader does something and all the others players have to ditto it, but without the slightest smile or sound. The leader may do anything within the "law." He may pull his neighbor's hair, unfasten his shoes or belt, pull his nose, pinch his leg, slap his back, stroke his cheek, etc. Those laughing must leave the circle.—Pathfinder.

BIG SIX WILLING TO TAKE HAWKEYES

Kansas Director of Athletics in Favor of Iowa Team.

Dr. F. C. Allen, director of athletics at Kansas university, said that any proposal to include Iowa university, ousted from the Big Ten, in the Big Six conference would be received favorably.

It had been indicated Iowa might seek membership in some other circuit.

"Our attitude toward Iowa is very friendly," Doctor Allen said. He pointed out that C. C. Williams, faculty athletic adviser at Iowa, formerly held that position at Kansas and that he had implicit confidence in his conduct of Iowa sports.

It was known Big Six officials were favorable toward a seven-team membership. Rumors came out of a conference of the schools' officials at Kansas City to the effect that a possibility was suggested whereby three Big Ten schools, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa, might join with three Big Six schools, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska, to form a new conference.

In that case, Doctor Allen indicated recently, a seven-team circuit would be considered, with Oklahoma or Kansas Aggies favored to belong.

"I think that Schmeling looks to be the most dangerous of the heavyweight contenders," said Gene Tunney. "He is fast and he can hit and within a couple of years he should be a fine fighter."

"It may be that Max will be set back for a while by the automobile accident he had. It kept him in bed for a couple of months. I asked him to lunch when I was in Germany, but he was still laid up and couldn't come. This means, of course, that he hasn't done any boxing for some time and will have to work himself back into shape."

"Schmeling tore the sheath of a tendon in his ankle. I did the same thing once to a tendon in my right hand. Pitchers sometimes do it to their elbows. It takes a long time to heal."

The new Ralph Jones backboard, adopted by the Western conference, is causing considerable difference of opinion among coaches and players. The Jones backboard is a plate of enameled steel, and the basket is bolted to it much more firmly than it could be on the glass bank formerly in use.

The main effect it has on the game is that being rigid the ball rebounds much more than it did from the old bank. This makes dribble-in shots harder to make, some of the players say, and on long shots the ball bounds back seven or eight feet and tends to end pileups under the basket.

"This tends to equalize the game," according to one coach. "Big men like 'Stretch' Murphy no longer hold so great an advantage of height over shorter men. A rebound going back seven or eight feet makes it impossible for a tall man to follow up and push the ball into the ring."

Looking back over all the games Army and Notre Dame had played, Coach "Biff" Jones, of the Army, vividly recalls the 1915 contest. In his talk at the Notre Dame banquet he said:

"It was only two minutes or so to play when the Army gave up the ball to Notre Dame on Notre Dame's two-yard line. I was playing in the line at the time. The first play was a punt formation with 'Little Dutch' Bergman drawing back to kick. Instead of punting he faked and ran around end, fooling us completely. He advanced to the Army 40-yard line before tackled. The next play was a successful pass for 20 yards. The ball was only 20 yards away from our goal with seconds to play and the score 0-0. Bergman let loose and other pass and it was good for a touchdown as the gun cracked. Notre Dame won, 7 to 0."

Upon the arrival home of the Navy squad from Philadelphia Commander Ingraham announced that no captain would be elected until the first game in the fall of 1930. This will enable the team to decide at length upon the best leader rather than to permit sentimental appeal be the deciding factor. The academy has adopted this same plan for crew.

A Pan-Pacific Olympics in Honolulu that will follow immediately after the Olympic games in Los Angeles, in 1932, is the immediate objective of the Hawaiian association of the Amateur Athletic association.

All Pacific countries would be invited to compete. These countries are Japan, China, Australia and the Pacific coast states of the United States. Hawaii will be well represented in the Olympic games at Los Angeles.

Spurring of his invention's distribution is expected by George T. Bresnahan, University of Iowa track coach, to be one result of the National Amateur Athletic union's approval of the use of starting blocks for track races.

The national body went on record declaring that the use of various types of starting blocks is entirely legal, and recommending similar approval to the International Amateur Athletic union.

Fairy Story: "Fifty thousand persons arose en masse when the half-back shot off tackle for 21 yards. 'Down in front!' shouted a small man in Row MM, and the crowd instantly subsided."

Soviet Planning Vast

Use of Electric Power

An electrified country is the aim of Soviet Russia. The current is to be used in every industrial field of operation. Millions are being appropriated by the government. Every possible kind of fuel—peat, oil, waste, anthracite waste, lignite—is to be utilized, says the Providence Journal.

The rivers are being dammed and sidetracked, so that they may spread their power over the industrial regions and at the same time offer better transportation. Canals are to link the improved rivers.

A system of waterways will connect the Baltic sea, the avenue westward to the Atlantic, the Black sea and Soviet Russia's trade routes to the East. The basin of the Volga river, which empties into the Caspian sea, is to have its canal to the Don, and through the Don basin its outlet to the Black sea and the Mediterranean.

The Rising Scale

Noel Coward, the versatile playwright and actor, listened with interest to a bit of gossip recounted by a fellow Thespian at the Lambs club. This gossip was about an elderly magnate who had recently been compelled to settle a huge sum of money on a chorus girl to avoid a scandal. "The old boy," said Mr. Coward dryly, "should take this blow philosophically. He must know that fun is like insurance—the older you get the more it costs."

Chinese Dress

The dress of the Chinese coolies is a costume very similar to pajamas. They wear large straw hats. The women of the same class wear tunics with a high collar similar to a pajama top with a flaring at the hem. These tunics are worn over skirts.

HARD ON HIS PANTS

During a fire prevention campaign in a leading American city, younger school students were asked to write essays on fire prevention. A winning paper said:

"Hundreds of people are killed every year by fire. Mother was dry cleaning some clothes, the gasoline ignited and flames were all around, but luckily she wasn't burned; the sink was close so in the course of time she got the fire out, otherwise we wouldn't have had a bed to sleep in."

"Just the other day I had several matches in my back pocket. I got down on the floor to get a nail out of the side of a row boat which we were fixing. I felt something warm in the seat of my pants until I couldn't stand it any longer. I couldn't imagine what it was, but you should have seen me strip my pants off. I found out all those matches ignited when I moved on the floor and burned the whole pocket out of my pants. Luckily, my pants were not inflammable or I would have gone up in smoke."

A homely object lesson given by a child, illustrating conditions which cause fires every day—improper use of gasoline and matches not kept in a proper container.

AFTER THE CRASH

The stock market upheaval demonstrated that stock exchanges constitute a great industry, capable of performing herculean service under the most trying conditions.

It also demonstrated that the danger of properly supervised brokerage houses going into liquidation is as remote as the chance of national banks failing.

NEW YEAR'S DAY

January 1, marking the beginning of the year, has been observed as a public holiday for many centuries, certainly in Rome since the reformation of the calendar by Julius Caesar in the century before Christ.

Owing to the confusion in dates which has resulted from the imperfections of various calendars, which caused skipping of dates as various times, New Year's Day may be said to be merely an arbitrary designation. As late as 1752 the adoption of the Gregorian calendar by England and the American colonies caused a skip of eleven days.

However, regardless of the day designated as New Year's at various times and in various countries, it has been generally observed as a holiday.

The Romans celebrated it with processions, abandonment of litigation and strife, exchanging of visits and of gifts, feasting and merry-making. Early fathers of the Christian church did not approve of these festivities, but recommended that the day be devoted to meditation, scripture reading and works of charity.

But about the fourth century, when December 25 had been agreed upon for the observance of Christ's nativity, New Year's Day, falling one week later, began to assume a sacred character, and as such it still figures in the calendars of certain branches of the church.

Other religious faiths, such as the Mohammedans and Jewish, have their own calendars, with distinctive holidays and festivals, in which their New Year's Day has a corresponding significance to that of Christendom.

Among all it is considered an appropriate day for reviewing the events of the previous year, the making of new resolves and the adoption of plans for the future. It is also the occasion for the expression of good wishes.

We join in the spirit of the day in wishing all a Happy New Year.

TEACHING BY RADIO

An important extension of teaching by means of radio is planned for the coming year, with the approval and co-operation of Dr. W. J. Cooper, U. S. Commissioner of Education, in which many historical events will be dramatized for the benefit of school pupils throughout the country.

Among the epochal events tentatively decided upon for inclusion in the program are the discovery of America, the landing of the Pilgrims, the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the explorations of Daniel Boone, the Lewis and Clark expedition to the Northwest, the careers of Sam Houston, Theodore Roosevelt and other great leaders of men.

In parallel courses will be given a wealth of material dealing with American literature, music, civic and nature studies, which will make for a better understanding of the genius of our national life.

The attractive manner in which otherwise prosaic subjects may be presented by radio, to both old and young, affords new opportunities for diffusing a knowledge of American history and culture.

NEW GIANT AIRPLANE

Early this year construction will be begun on the largest airplane ever designed, to be built by the General Development Company of Connecticut, according to an announcement by Dr. William Christmas, vice-president, who is the inventor of the aileron balancing device now used on every modern airplane.

The new giant of the air will have a wing-spread of 262 feet, which is 100 feet greater than that of the DO-X, now the largest airplane in the world. It will carry a crew of seventeen, and will accommodate 206 passengers.

There will be berths for 160, also smoking and card rooms, with a spacious lounging and dining salon seating forty-two persons. Freight and mail compartments with electric elevators are placed in the wings. There will be eight motors of 1,200 horsepower each.

During 1930 this will perhaps be the last word in airplane development. Who can foretell what 1931 and succeeding years may bring?

ADVERTISING IN 1930

The 240 members of the American Association of Advertisers will buy space to the value of $206,000,000 during 1930, or $20,000,000 more than their expenditure in 1929, according to the president of the association. This represents an increase of 11 per cent.

This announcement was made in connection with the survey of business and industrial activities being made at the suggestion of President Hoover, after conferring with leaders in the various basic industries.

It should be encouraging to the country at large that these national advertisers have sufficient faith in the soundness of our economic structure to press forward with increased vigor in their sales efforts for the coming year.

Senator Grundy isn't saying much, but the mythical Mrs. Grundy has been even more loquacious than usual since his appointment.

Senator Grundy would be an ideal chairman of a committee to investigate lobby investigators.

A FRANKLIN MEMORIAL

Nation-wide interest attaches to a project recently announced for the building of a great memorial in Philadelphia to Benjamin Franklin, pioneer American printer and publisher.

As planned by a committee, of which Cyrus H. K. Curtis is chairman, the Franklin Memorial will be a three-story structure, to house astronomical observatories, engineering and industrial expositions, objects illustrating the progress of science and invention, and many models of aircraft, ships and other means of transportation.

One of the most elaborate features of the Memorial will be a great planetarium, which will represent the sun, moon, planets, and about 9,000 fixed stars.

It is well that such an institution should be erected to the memory of Benjamin Franklin, who is by many considered the greatest character America ever produced. As editor, inventor, statesman, patriot, philosopher and lover of liberty, he occupies a unique place in the nation's history.

In bringing France to the side of the American colonies during the Revolution, Franklin performed a service without which liberty could hardly have been achieved.

ADVERTISING AND UTILITIES

"The lowest priced commodities of any kind, whether shoes, automobiles or gas and electric service, are those which are most advertised," says W. H. Hodge of the Byllesby Company.

"Utility advertising has brought important factors concerning the industry before the American people and has helped provide them with an understanding of utility problems and operating conditions. And it has helped, as well, in creating a tremendous demand for gas and electricity with the result that our utilities are able to provide better service at lower rates."

"Possibly one of the most absurd statements ever made is that utilities purchase advertising in newspapers in order to influence editorial opinion. Such an attitude is a grave reflection on every American editor. And it is likewise a serious criticism, unfounded in fact, of the great utilities which have made every effort to aid the industrial, agricultural and domestic progress of the nation."

Heat
- at a finger's touch

With a furnace or boiler burning gas fuel, the temperature of your home is regulated from upstairs by means of a push-button or a thermostat. No trips to the basement on cold mornings. No bother about heat when friends come. Your home is warm and cheerful. Curtains, wall-paper and furniture retain their fresh cleanliness. There is no smoke or soot about your property.

Even though you have no basement, there are fine types of gas-fired equipment for your home.

Gas is the easiest fuel to control, and when a fuel is easy to control, it is absolutely safe.

For full details about heating equipment that burns the clean gas fuel, see a heating contractor or phone or call at our office.

Multiplying
Your Telephone's
Convenience

WE ARE NOW in the midst of a cable-placing program for the Pacific Coast which, by 1933, will link cities from the Canadian line to Mexican. This new lead-sheathed, storm-proof cable will multiply our city-to-city facilities in some cases twenty times over, besides improving clearness and sureness of out-of-town service to a marked degree. Practically trouble-proof, and taking the place of hundreds of open wires, this new cable will make neighbors of all. This cable-building program will cost about $30,000,000. It will increase the convenience of every telephone we serve.

Mrs. Antroccoli, Mr. and Mrs. De Martini and Miss Jennie Bocci, of Colma, and many other friends from San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lorenz, of Mission street, entertained at a family dinner New Year's day, having as their guests Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Lagomarsino and sons George, Jr., and Eugene, Mr. F. Davis and Helen, Alice, Henry, Jr., and Herman Lorenz.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heeringa entertained a group of friends at a theatre party New Year's eve, attending the show at the President Theatre. After the show the group motored to the Heeringa home in Colma, where a midnight supper was served and several other friends called to welcome in the new year. Those enjoying the show were Mr. and Mrs. R. Heeringa, Miss Louise Johns, Ray Clark, Miss Louise Harbaugh, Fred Bauer, Miss Anita Clark, Rudy Watt, Miss Emily Bauer, S. Grant and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jensen. The supper guests joining the party after the show were Mr. and Mrs. C. Myser, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schwarz, Eddie Dennis, John Dennis, Fred Varni, James Varni, Joe Callori, James Mullin, Elbert Keithly and Fred Bertetta.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bertini, of Moltke street, entertained a large gathering of relatives and friends New Year's eve at a costume party, this being an annual event and is looked forward to with much pleasure. The home was prettily decorated with Christmas greens and streamers of crepe paper, and at midnight tempting refreshments were served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. G. Graziani, Mrs. C. Fuchs, Mrs. S. Belli, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bertini and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bianchini, Mr. and Mrs. L. Graziani, Mr. and Mrs. H. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. E. Graziani and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cattori and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Mowry and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Fuchs and family, Miss Jean Belli, Miss Mary Belli, Miss Dolly Fuchs, Miss Katherine Fuchs, Miss Louise Cerri, Miss Adeline Cerri, Miss Celia Kappeler, Miss Katherine Kappeler, Miss Pearl Harris, Charles Capurro, Henry Fuchs, Silvio Rosaia, William Kappeler, Francis Kappeler, and Laurence Kappeler.

COUNTY GAINS 3,000 DURING PAST YEAR

San Mateo county has a population of 65,244, a gain of approximately 3,000 during the past year, according to an estimate based on school attendance, released Monday from the office of Walter E. Morgan, chief of the division of educational research, Sacramento. The population of the county last year was 62,534, Morgan estimates.

The figures are taken from the 1920 census count, projected by use of county ratios between total population and average daily attendance in schools, the statistician explained.

DALY CITY THEATRE SIGNS 1930 PRODUCT

The Daly City Theatre has just completed the signing of new contracts for the 1930 season, and will bring to the Daly City Theatre as first run district showings all of the Radio Keith Orpheum pictures, as well as Tiffany Stahl productions, a portion of the year's output of Warner Brothers and the First National Vitaphone Studios. Paramount Pictures and Metro Goldwyn Mayer will have a place on the Daly City bills also, through contracts that have just been signed, so that the real cream of the talking pictures and musical pictures will have their home at the Daly City Theatre, where they will be presented under the slogan of "Where Sound Pictures Sound Best."

For Saturday, January 4, Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, together with Barbara Bennett, Bobby Watson and Morton Downey, will be featured Paramount all talkie, all musical show, called "Syncopation."

For Sunday, Buddy Rogers and Mary Brian will appear in a delightful Paramount all talkie, all musical treat, "River of Romance."

"The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," said to be one of the best thrill and chill pictures of the present season, will be the feature attraction for Monday and Tuesday.

Wednesday night will bring the Knights of Columbus Vaudeville and Picture show to the Daly City Theatre. There will be five big time acts of vaudeville and a first showing of the Radio Pictures special, Rod La Rocque in "The Delightful Rogue." Eddie Gleason is on the same bill with "Meet the Missus," a screamingly comedy special. Gilbert Greene's Vaudeville orchestra will be in the pit. There will be two complete shows, at 6:30 and 9 p. m. Better go early.

For Thursday and Friday, the three famous Moore Brothers, appearing for the first time in a single picture together, will be seen in the Radio Keith Orpheum all talking sensation called "Side Street." Charley Chase will also be on this bill in a screamingly funny comedy special called "Snappy Sneeze."

TO CURB SLANDERERS

An effort to curb the tongues of Congressmen who are given to making reckless and slanderous statements concerning objects of their displeasure is seen in a resolution introduced in the House by Congressman Fort of New Jersey.

It is well known to every observer that both Senate and House members frequently take advantage of their legal immunity and make attacks upon citizens which would probably result in damage suits if made by private individuals.

While Mr. Fort's resolution would not make Congressmen liable to prosecution, it would give injured persons the right to make complaint to the House, which might then discipline the offending member according to its own rules, if deemed proper.

Whether the proposed measure would be effective or not is uncertain, but it ought to be brought to a record vote, so that the public might know just which legislators desire to preserve their right to indulge in unrestrained slander.

SUMMONS TO ESTABLISH TITLE

Action No. 16790.
In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo, County of San Mateo, Plaintiff, vs. All persons claiming any interest in, or title to, the real property hereinafter described, or any part thereof, Defendants.

You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of LENGFELD & OLUND, a corporation, plaintiff, filed with the Clerk of the above-entitled Court and County, within the time specified in the summons, to wit: on or before the first publication of this summons, and to set forth what interest or lien, if any, you have in or upon that part thereof, situated in the County of San Mateo, State of California, particularly described as follows:

All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land situated in the County of San Mateo, State of California, particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Lot 2, Block 22, of East San Mateo, as said lot and block are delineated, designated and shown on that certain map which is of record in the office of the County Recorder of San Mateo, in Book 6 of Maps at page 36 thereof, records of said County, entitled "Map of Resubdivisions of Blocks 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, East San Mateo."

And you are hereby notified that, unless you so appear and answer, the plaintiff may apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint, to-wit: That it be adjudged that the plaintiff is the owner of said property in fee simple, and that its title to said property be established and quieted; that the Court ascertain and determine all estates, rights, titles, interests and claims in and to said property, and every part thereof, whether the same be legal or equitable, present or future, vested or contingent, and whether the same consists of mortgaged or liens of any description; that plaintiff recover its costs herein and have such other relief as may be met in the premises.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Court this 5th day of November, A. D. 1929.

TELEPHONE ACHIEVEMENT

The amazing progress made by the telephone industry is exemplified by the fact that service from a large steamer, sailing from New York to Europe, has been established. Anyone on the steamer can talk to any one possessing a telephone in this country, at very low rates, during a large part of the ship's voyage.

In fifteen years long distance telephone development has virtually circled the globe. He would be bold indeed who dared to forecast telephone achievements twenty years hence.

"Nothing. The burned papers were completely burned, as they usually are. Of course, the complete absence of clues should be made into a valuable clue—but I haven't quite worked it out. For instance, though, you insist that she was a vain, conceited person?"

"If ever there was one."

"Vain women usually have photographs of themselves about. I found not one in here."

"She used to have one, in a silver frame," I said. I looked around and saw the frame lying face down on the mantel. I picked it up. An old faded picture of Sam and Margarita in their wedding togs confronted me.

When I had shown it to Miss MacDonald, she took it and carried it to the window.

"The glass has been washed, carefully," she said, "since the picture was put in here."

She pressed on the purple velvet back and took the picture from the frame. Across the bottom of the picture, where the wide silver frame had hidden it, written in Gaby's bold handwriting, were these words:

"My one deadly enemy."

"My word!" said Miss MacDonald.

"Are you certain," she questioned, next, "that the girl's mother is not living?"

"Don't ask me to be certain of anything," I said, and looked for a chair to sit down in.

She came and put one of her capable hands on my shoulders. "You shouldn't let this trouble you," she said. "It is more than likely that Gabrielle Canneziano had nothing to do with it. I must verify the handwriting."

In the next instant she certainly gave me a fine turn. Her eyes went big and round, her cheeks blazed with blushes, and she clapped her hands to them and stood staring at me as if I were the original human horror. "I—" she gasped out, "I have made a mistake."

I felt like rising and giving her a good shaking. "Lands!" I snapped. "Who hasn't?"

"I would discharge one of my assistants like that," she snapped her fingers. "For such a mistake. Crime analyst! Confounded ass! Conceited amateur! Oh!" She went running out of the room, leaving me sitting there to do what I liked with that talk of hers.

She was back in two minutes. She had Gaby's late note to Danny in her hands. "I have been assuming," she said, and her cheeks flamed up again, "that Gabrielle Canneziano wrote this note. I have had a pleasant little assumption. Now I will get some facts. I must find a sample of her handwriting."

She began to search through Gaby's desk. I helped her. Gaby had made a thorough job of her burning. There was not a scratch of her writing to be found.

"Danny will have something," I said. "I'll see whether she is in her room." Danny was in her room, sitting at her own desk, writing out checks and addressing envelopes. I told her I had come to ask her for a sample of Gaby's handwriting.

"I am sorry, Mary," she said, as she finished addressing an envelope, sealed it, and looked for a stamp in the stamp box, "but I haven't anything, except, of course, the last note she wrote to me, and Miss MacDonald is keeping that."

She addressed another envelope, and added it to the pile beside her. "It isn't," she said, noticing my reluctance to leave, "that I am not interested, Mary. It is only that I know that I haven't a scrap of her writing."

I turned to go. I had reached the door when she called to me and asked me to take her letters downstairs for the mailbag, when I went downstairs. I returned to Miss MacDonald with my information.

"Dear me!" she said. "If only they would work with me, Mary. Instead of by themselves, or against me. At any rate," she put aside the photograph, a ruler-like thing, and her magnifying glass, "the note to Danielle Canneziano, and the writing on the photograph were done by the same person. What are the letters you have there, in your hand, Mrs. Magin?"

I told her they were some that Danny had asked me to take down stairs. She held out her hand for them. I had to allow her to have them. But first I read the addresses. They were the names of mail-order stores in Portland, Ore., and in San Francisco, Calif.

Miss MacDonald looked at them closely. Then she took up a flat paper knife, from Gaby's desk, and deliberately opened the envelope by lifting the flap.

"She surely does not seal her letters carefully," she said, and took out a check, nothing else, from the envelope.

"It is dated today, the thirteenth of July," she said.

"Of course it is," I answered, tartly. "I'm making any of this. She was writing them just now, while I was in there."

"Did you see her writing them?" she asked.

"I certainly did."

She sighed and moved her head with an impatient gesture, rather like John's worried gestures. "Then that is that," she said, and returned the check to the envelope, sealed the envelope, and gave it, with the others, back to me.

"Now for the code letter," she said, and sat down in front of the typewriter. I left her there, and went to look for Sam.

CHAPTER XIV

Danielle's Secret

I found him in the living room, playing solitaire. Mrs. Ricker was in the chair by the window, tating.

"Lands, Sam," I said, sitting down across the table from him, "when do you take to sitting around and wasting good time like this?"

"I am helping Miss MacDonald," he said. "Making it easy for her to watch me and convincing her that I'm more or less of a nut, at the same time. Two birds with one stone."

"She isn't watching you," Mrs. Ricker spoke up. "She is watching Hubert and me. If I don't leave here, soon, I shall have to be taken—to an insane asylum. I tell you, I can't stand it!" She jumped up from her chair, and went rushing out of the room through the front door. On the porch she dropped into a chair, and hid her face in her hands.

As I looked at her, sitting there, I remembered that it was she who had found the body. Her story had sounded straight enough; but, before she had told it, she had had plenty of time to make it a straight one. Perhaps she had had help in making it a straight one.

Hubert Hand. He had, by his own admission, served a term in prison for forgery. He had had notes from Gaby, and had destroyed them. Was it possible that he might have written the farewell note to Gaby, and the inscription on the photograph? Sam could not swear that Hubert Hand had been in the barn the entire hour between five and six o'clock.

Would it have been possible for Hubert Hand to have slipped into the house, through the front door, during that hour, without Danny's having seen him? Possible—that was all. Mrs. Ricker, of course, would have seen Hubert Hand pass through the room; but Mrs. Ricker could keep a secret.

Again, what had he thought that I had overheard that day in the cabin?

What motive could he have had for killing Gaby? Suppose that Gaby had lied to Danny about the entire contents of the code letter, and that, after all, the money had been hidden on the place. That would be an explanation for Canneziano's coming to the ranch. But suppose that Hubert Hand had found it, or had known that Gaby had found it—

"Come home, Mary," Sam's voice, speaking extra low, cut in on my reverie. "I want to know what you think about this."

"I set Canneziano to mending the south clover fence this morning. I told him I was going to north clover. On my way there, I passed the house. I happened to remember how slick Miss MacDonald had cleaned the attic. It seemed a shame not to use it so I went up, taking my field glasses with me, for luck. I'd watched about five minutes, out of the window, when I saw Canneziano leave the fence and make up toward the cabin. I came down, jumped on Bobbie Burns, and circled around the hill, back of the cabin. Just as I got my glasses trained, I saw Danny, walking to beat time, coming away from the cabin. I don't know whether she had been in it or not. I didn't see her come out of it. I rode straight down. Before I had quite reached the cabin, Canneziano came out of it. He was carrying a fishing rod, and he went right down to the stream with it. What I'm wondering is, had he and Danny met at the cabin, and had a talk?"

"I know exactly what Mrs. Ricker means," I said. "About losing her mind on this place. It has come to the pass that no one can do any simple thing without being spied on and suspected. Danny always takes her walks in the direction of the cabin. We all do. It is the prettiest, coolest walk on the place."

Sam rubbed the back of his head. "By Joe! I hadn't thought of that."

"Think about it now, for a minute," I advised. "When you get through, try to think whether you know of any place where we could get hold of a scrap or two of Gaby's handwriting. We have the last note she wrote to Danny, but we want something more."

"You've come to the right place, for once," he said, and took a long envelope out of his pocket.

"I guess I never happened to mention to you, did I, that I fixed up a small checking account for the girls in the Telko bank. Their bank statements and canceled checks came in a few days ago. Here they are. Do you want me to take them up to Miss MacDonald?"

"I'll take them," I offered, "and save you the trip." I longed to see how much of Sam's money the girls had spent in one month, and what they had spent it for.

I don't know yet whether it was cunning, contrariness, or courtesy that propelled Sam up those stairs, with the envelope tight in his hand, and without having allowed me as much as a peek at its contents.

I went into the kitchen and put through a fairly good batch of baking, considering that I'd got a late start at it. I was all through and frosting the cakes, when Miss MacDonald telephoned down to the kitchen and asked me to go for a walk with her.

I told her that I'd like nothing better than a breath of the clean, sage-seasoned air, and that I'd be ready in ten minutes. I gave Zinnia a few directions, and went upstairs to change my shoes.

As I came down the front stairs, into the living room, I saw Mrs. Ricker coming up the steps to the porch. She was toting a big old shovel; carrying it out in front of her, and carefully, right side up, like it was a pancake turner and she had a pancake on it.

She stopped to turn sidewise and open the screen door with her foot, and then she came straight along into the living room, poking the thing toward Miss MacDonald.

"I want you to look at this," she said.

Miss MacDonald, all crisp in white linen, backed away a mile; but she looked, as directed.

I came hurrying to look, too. I don't know what I expected to see—nothing, less than a dead scorpion; but, certainly, something more than I did see: an old iron shovel with dirt on it.

"Well?" Miss MacDonald questioned.

"I was going to Martha's grave when the shower came up. I stapped in the cabin. This shovel, and another one, were inside the door there. Look at that earth—it is fresh earth. Now I tell you, two people have been digging around this place; and they were at it not longer ago than yesterday, more likely this morning."

"My word!" said Miss MacDonald. It seemed to me there was more annoyance in her voice than there was interest or astonishment. "But surely, around a farm, a ranch, that is, around a place of this sort there must be a great deal of digging going on. Gardens—vegetables, you know. That is—one thing and another." She stumbled it, like that.

"We don't make garden here in July," I told her. "The vegetable gardens and greenhouses are about three miles away from where Mrs. Ricker found the shovels."

"To be sure," She puckered her brows.

Danny had come downstairs. I guess we must have looked funny, the three of us, standing there and staring at the shovel, which Mrs. Ricker was still holding as if it were a pancake turner.

"But—what is it?" Danny inquired.

"It is a shovel," said Mrs. Ricker.

"Yes, I know. But what about it?"

"It has fresh earth on it," Mrs. Ricker explained. "It means that some one is still hunting for something on this ranch."

"I—don't understand," Danny faltered.

"You do, if anyone does," Mrs. Ricker said, trying to make it sound off-handish; but it did not.

To my surprise, Miss MacDonald answered, "I think that you are mistaken, Mrs. Ricker. Miss Canneziano knows, I fancy, no more about the shovel than you do."

Mrs. Ricker's face flushed. She carried the thing out and threw it into the yard with a gesture of furious anger. When Miss MacDonald and I passed her on the porch, she turned her head away and did not look at us.

"If we hurry," I said, "we'll have time to walk to the cabin and see the other shovel."

"Rather the other shovel! We don't want to hurry. Can't we get down to the stream, somewhere close here, and find a place where we can be alone to talk?"

"Right down this path," I answered, and started down it. She followed me. For fifty yards or more neither of us said a word. I was too put about to feel like talking.

I must have made a sound that was suggestive of my disgusted annoyance, for Miss MacDonald stepped up to walk beside me on the narrow path.

"I am sorry," she said, "that I have seemed so exasperatingly stupid; but I know that those shovels are of no importance. You'll understand all about it, later. Please don't be vexed. I have some really good news. First, the handwriting on the checks, the photograph, and the note all tally accurately. That must mean, that Gabrielle Canneziano wrote all of them. Next, I have worked out the key to the code letter—"

"Lands alive!" I said, my astonishment and admiration getting the best of my bad humor. "In this short time? Talk about wonders—"

"Not a bit of it. The code is so simple that I am surprised that people, who have wits enough to use a code at all, would use it."

"The keys on typewriters, with a standard keyboard, are arranged, you know, for the touch system of writing: a, s, d, f, g, so on. All that this code amounts to, is taking the letters straight as they come along: a, b, c, d; and so on. From the center line of letters, they skip to the upper line, making 'q' be a 'j' and from the upper line down to the lower line, making the 'z' a 't.' They use only the letters on the keyboard, and the punctuation marks as they would rightly be used. Generally they put a hyphen after the letter to be capitalized, though occasionally they use the capital letter. It is so childish that I fancy it is only a friendship code, and that it is not used for matters of any real importance."

"Then this letter is of no importance?" I asked.

"Not to the writer. Of vast importance to us, I believe. It explains why the original letter was stolen, among other things. Here is one of the copies that I made of it."

We had come to the stream, and to the shade of the aspen trees. I sat down on one of the rocks, above the first fishing hole, and unfolded the papers she had given to me, and read: "Salutations! Do you remember my dear and gay Gaby, after the V. affair, when you visited me in the hospital, that you said, with your imitated Mona Lisa smile, 'Sorry old dear, I made a trifling mistake, did I not? The incident has probably passed from your memory. It has not passed from mine, because I did not believe then, and I do not believe now, that you intended to fire that shot at V. Instead of at me. You proved your innocence, however, like the expert you are; so, let the dead past—' et cetera. Particularly since I did not die, but

"The fair has its origin written in the dim pages of the past, and as an institution, although not the same as it is today, has long existed."

"Although it is not known where the first fair was held, evidence points to the existence of fairs in western civilization as early as the dawn of the Christian era. There is evidence of fairs in eastern countries long before this, some historians pointing out that King Ahasuerus held a six months fair in the year 500 B. C., at which he showed the riches of his glorious kingdom." This is the first fair recorded in history. Others probably preceded this, however, as the Scriptures record certain activities as fairs. In the Book of Ezekiel, twenty-seventh chapter, there are references to numerous fairs that were in existence at that time.

"There is only one thing of which we are certain concerning these early fairs, that they were commercial in character. Merchants came from distant countries with their native wares for trade with other merchants."

Ants' Skyscrapers

Compared with the structure built by the termite ant the great skyscrapers of our cities are insignificant achievements. Man, who is five or six feet tall, has built or plans to build to a height of 1,200 feet. The termite, only three-sixteenths of an inch from end to end, erects apartments rising twenty feet into the air.

Therefore man's buildings are only about one-seventh as high as the dwellings of the ant, relatively—that is considering the great difference in their respective sizes. The cubic space in an ant hill will contain a million times more inhabitants than the largest human habitation.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Highest Capital

La Paz, Bolivia, is the loftiest capital in the world, for it stands on a mountain top 12,470 feet above sea level. This is 2,000 feet higher than Quito, in Ecuador, and 5,000 feet higher than Mexico City. Its nearest rival for height is the far distant Lhasa, which stands at an altitude of 11,830 feet. The mean temperature of La Paz is 50 degrees Fahrenheit. But the cold nights are unrelieved by fireside comforts, as the folk have nothing to burn, there being neither coal nor trees in the desolate mountainous regions around the city.

Instruction Points

The teaching load refers to four factors conditioning the efficiency of instruction and are: (1) The pupil-teacher ratio, as shown by the average daily attendance; (2) The number of classes taught by the teachers; (3) The number of student hours per teacher; (4) The number of students in a class. The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools recommends the following as normal: (1) Pupil-Teacher ratio, 25; (2) The number of classes taught by the teacher, 5 daily; (3) The number of student hours per teacher, 150 per day; (4) The number of students in a class, 25.

have lived to make, also, a trifling mistake.

"I find that I was in error concerning the train robbery. After due reflection, I have remembered that, reading of the details in the Denver papers, your respected father and I merely regretted that we had not had the forethought, and the cleverness, to have pulled the affair ourselves. Since this is the case, we could not have hidden the money, as I seem to recall telling you that we did, on the Desert Moon ranch. It was a pretty dream of ours—that was all."

"Shall I explain? Do you remember the sweet cocotte with the colored sash at Cannes? Very young, very exquisite, and almost very innocent? She watched us, from her table, out of the violet corners of her long, long eyes. When we left the place, you and I, my gloves were missing and I returned for them. You were duped, my dear, were you not?"

"She is not as lovely, not as gay as you were at eighteen. But you are no longer eighteen. And you have grown exacting, and a bit vicious (re-entling, again, the V. affair), and a bit selfish, too. (I knew that you collected the final five hundred pounds from Baron T.)"

"These, and all things considered, I seem to myself to have acted rather nobly, rather compassionately. I spared you the heartache of witnessing your supplantation. Ours was a tender leave taking, was it not? I paid the expenses of a long and costly journey for you and the gentle Danielle. (Gad, Gay, I'd have paid twice as much to be rid of you for half the time!) I sent you to fond relatives. I provided you with an interesting and romantic occupation—treasure hunting. I gave the right-ous Danielle the opportunity for which she was dying: the opportunity to try her hand at turning you into 'an honest woman.'"

"Tell her, by the way, that her lover, or as she virtuously insisted, her husband is still with me, and that he is behaving himself admirably. I suspect that my Lili is a bit over fond of him; but I have warned her that one who has had the chaste affections of the little nun would be unlikely to succumb to her ardencies."

"Lili now inquires to whom am I writing. She is eighteen; she has seen you; so I dare tell her, to you, in a far country with an amusing name—Nevada."

"She mispronounces it, deliciously. She blows it, and you, charmingly away from the tips of her tiny pink fingers. She kisses my ears. She tells me that she owns me. So, I suppose, I should not sign myself, as of old, Yours, with an ever increasing devotion, Bimbi."

"Good lands alive!" I said. My stomach hurt me, and my head ached. "I am sorry for young Mr. Stanley," Miss MacDonald said. "But, you see, I was right in thinking that Miss Canneziano's life might hold a secret."

"No! No!" Danny stood there in front of us, holding it an aspen tree for support.

"I wondered whether you were coming out from behind the tree," Miss MacDonald said.

"I saw you looking at me. You are cruel. You are very cruel."

For a minute all I could be was sorry for Danny. I got up and went to her and put an arm around her.

"Danny, honey," I said, "are you planning a divorce, after you've had your six months in Nevada? Was he cruel to you? Unfaithful?"

"No, no," she said. "Nothing like that, nothing at all. I can explain every word of it. But will anyone believe me?"

"You just try it," I urged. "I'm all set for believing you, right here and now. Come over here, and rest, and tell us all about it."

I led her across to the rock where I had been sitting, and made a place for her beside me.

YEAR OF PROGRESS FOR STATE BANKS

independent and unit banks. Now we have both independent unit banks and branch systems. Today there are in the state of California a total of 400 unit banks and 55 branch systems operating 1,303 branches, in contrast to 646 unit banks and 79 branch systems operating 170 branches in 1920. In 1920 we had 285 more banking corporations than we have today, but their number has been decreased by absorption into branch systems. Our growth in recent years has been largely told in increases in the number of branches controlled by the various systems, the activities of which are state-wide.

"In addition to changes in banking organization, the year just closed has been one in which sound banking practice and sound banking laws have had to meet more than the usual demands made upon them. That the banks have emerged strong and sound, speaks well for the vision and experience of their management and the general resourcefulness of our people in times of stress. We have gone through a devastating frost which caused great losses to many agriculturists. Though the resultant rise in prices proved a boon to those who were not affected, the real sufferers had to be cared for nevertheless. Along with the demands made by agriculture, there was in many sections a further complication caused by lack of rainfall during the autumn. The recent deflation in the stock market was a real crisis through which the banks passed without difficulty.

"The record of all the banks in this state shows that December is the peak month of activity, but returns are not as yet available for the fourth quarter of 1929. However, the October to October comparison, which is the last available, shows that the banks have added over $60,000,000 to their total assets for the year, and this will probably be increased by the figures shown in the next called report.

"Savings deposits of individuals have increased during the year in spite of heavy withdrawals. Loans have increased by almost $150,000,000. Bond holdings have declined and the money became available to meet the demand of clients for new loans.

"Since December 31, 1928, the number of savings depositors has increased from 3,239,814 to 3,416,216—a gain of 176,402. This is an excellent showing, considering the general financial and market conditions."

COUNTY BOOSTERS REPORT ACTIVITY

and registered at the exhibit, representing at least twenty-four states and seven foreign countries.

Purchased a one reel print of industrial motion picture and arranged for its regular showing at the State building in Los Angeles.

Prepared and published a County "Vupak" containing eighteen selected views in San Mateo county. One thousand of these packets were purchased for use of the County Chamber at conventions and like gatherings.

Prepared and published 25,000 post card maps of county and scenic highways and points of scenic and historic attractions.

Prepared and published a bird's-eye view map of the Peninsula for use with publicity articles in California Real Estate Magazine and others.

Secured the publication of a full page Travelog with illustrations in the San Francisco Bulletin.

Secured without cost to the county a full page in the special edition of the San Francisco Call, presenting and emphasizing the advantages and opportunities in San Mateo county.

Prepared and published a full page advertisement in annual number of California Real Estate Magazine, given national-wide distribution.

Showed motion pictures of industrial facilities on the Peninsula to a meeting of the industrial department of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, to a public meeting at supervisors' chambers in San Francisco City Hall, and to an evening meeting of the San Francisco Traffic Association at the Palace Hotel. Attendance at three meetings about 1,000 people.

Completed a county scenic film of two reels, called "California's Picturesque Peninsula," which had required nearly one year to photograph the various scenic features at the most opportune time.

Purchased ten two reel prints of this film and secured wide-spread showings through co-operation of the State Universities of Middle Western states. Reports for October, the first month, showed that more than 8,400 prospective citizens in Colorado, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Texas and Wisconsin had seen this film of our residential, educational, recreational, climatic and commercial advantages. Films have since been sent to Illinois and Iowa. Clubs, lodges, churches, schools, parent-teacher organizations and others in these states receive the films without any rental charge to them. Contrary to the general belief that such wide-spread distribution must be very expensive, the arrangements made by Manager Wyatt is such that the cost many not exceed one cent per person reported to have seen the two reel film.

Loaned one two reel print of county scenic film to the Commercial Attache at the United States Embassy in London, England, for use there and in surrounding towns with lectures.

Made provision for regular showings of county scenic film at the California State building, Exposition Park, Los Angeles.

Exhibited the county scenic film daily at State Fair in Sacramento.

Co-operated with County Unit of American Legion in sending an immense floral basket (representing the county's "Seven Million Dollar Annual Bouquet") to state convention of American Legion in San Diego.

Co-operated with Burlingame-San Mateo County Fall Flower Show, by providing 10,000 cards announcing the Floral Show at Bayshore highway opening.

Co-operated with Scouts committee in a floral exhibit at Scouts national convention in San Francisco Civic Auditorium.

Arranged and provided a two weeks floral exhibit at State Chamber of Commerce in Ferry building, in San Francisco.

Published 27,500 four page folders descriptive of county scenic film for use of Middle West State Universities in announcing the free distribution of "California's Picturesque Peninsula" film.

Endorsed and supported the following projects calculated to benefit San Mateo county: Western Pacific-California Railroad application to build a line through Redwood City and other county towns to San Francisco; Great Northern and Western Pacific application to build connection link; Sunnyside naval dirigible base site; movement for action on Oceanshore boulevard; and plan to secure unified lighting on Bayshore boulevard.

Furnished service of Manager Wyatt as executive secretary of the Peninsula Industrial Conference since its organization.

Wrote and secured publication of publicity stories on Redwoods, Artichokes, Mushroom Industry, Floral Industry, Dairy Industry, Woodland Theatre and scenic and historic points of interest in such magazines as the California Journal of Development, California Real Estate Magazine, California Journal, Motor Land, National Motorist and Pictorial California. Eight stories were carried in the last named magazine, all profusely illustrated.

Arranged for Sunday motorlogs to induce acquaintance with San Mateo county in the following dailies in the number indicated: San Jose News, 2; Oakland Tribune, 3; San Jose Mercury, 7; San Francisco Examiner, 7.

Contributed services of Manager Wyatt to committee of industrial staff men selected to draft outline for an industrial analysis of the San Francisco-Oakland Metropolitan Area, which when published will present an industrial picture of the entire bay region and particularly of advantage to the San Francisco Peninsula.

This brief report is by no means a complete resume, but it does present a picture which will enable your Honorable Board to see the progress made during the year now ending.

NEWS NOTES OF PERSONAL INTEREST

The next meeting of the General Pershing P. T. A. will be held on January 7, at 1:30 p. m., in the school.

Roy Stockdale, of South Dakota, is spending the winter with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stockdale, of Willis street.

J. P. Hawkins, of 139 Knowles avenue, who has been ill for some time, is reported as steadily improving, and his many friends wish him an early and complete recovery.

Mrs. A. Douglas and daughter, Miss Doris Douglas, and son, Vernon Douglas, of Senoma, are spending the holidays at the home of Mrs. Douglas' daughter, Mrs. William Bolger, of Risel street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Nylund, of Vista Grande avenue, entertained at dinner last Sunday, having as their guests Mr. and Mrs. J. Nelson and family, of Woodside Glenn, and Mrs. Tully Pavlos.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Antonsen and Mr. and Mrs. J. Antonsen, of Portland, Oregon, who have been enjoying a motor tour of the coast, were house guests several days of the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Bodeker, of Goethe street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ny, of Risel street, entertained at an impromptu party Christmas day, having as their guests Mrs. P. Bohere and daughters Eugenia and Eleanor, Mrs. V. Gray, Mrs. Ray Dolman, Mr. and Mrs. W. Dorn, Mrs. James Oliver and daughter Dorothy, and Franklin Ny.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Foss and family, of Los Banos avenue, were dinner guests New Year's day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Scherlin in San Francisco.

Miss Marie Steinback was taken to the Children's hospital on Thursday of last week, where she underwent an operation. Latest reports are that she is making a splendid recovery.

Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Beatie, of Tracy, former residents of Colma, were house guests last Sunday and Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Langley, of 362 Irvington street.

It will be much appreciated if the members will make a special effort to be present at the General Pershing P. T. A. meeting on Tuesday, January 7, at 1:30 p. m., on the occasion of the official visit of several of the district officers.

The Archconfraternity of Our Lady of Perpetual Help will meet Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. at Perpetual Help church, Daly City. A distinguished preacher of the Holy Redeemer College, Oakland, will conduct the services on this occasion. All members should be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Howard, of Los Banos avenue, are receiving the congratulations of their many friends upon the arrival of a fine girl, after a race between an ambulance and the stork, last Friday, the stork winning out. The mother and baby are at the Lane hospital in San Francisco, and both are reported doing nicely.

The ladies of Fire Company No. 3 will give their whist on January 9 at No. 3 fire house on Lake avenue.

The many friends of Constable S. A. Landini are happy to hear that he is greatly improved after being ill for the past few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Light and son Gerald and Mrs. Edwards, of Los Olivos avenue, spent New Year's day visiting friends at Yolanda, Marin county.

Miss Julia Nation, Miss Helen Nation and Paul Nation, of Peoria street, and Miss Josephine Fernandez and Harry Meeks attended a New Year's eve party at the home of Miss Helen Rickmann in San Francisco.

The Daly City Camp Fire Girls held their regular meeting last Thursday evening at the home of the Misses Dorothy and Gladys Eldrup, of Roosevelt avenue. After an interesting business meeting, dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Eldrup.

Miss Claire Hansen, of 64 Acton street, entertained a group of friends last Sunday evening in honor of her birthday. Dancing was enjoyed, after which refreshments were served to the following guests: Miss Alberta Freeman, Miss Leonore McCutcheon, Earl Mitchell, Dick Christian and Curtis Riley.

Mrs. Flora Foppiano, of Evergreen avenue, entertained the members of the auditing committee of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Fire Company No. 4 at her home last Monday afternoon. After a business meeting, dainty refreshments were served to the following guests: Mrs. Annie Fonseca, Mrs. Julia Jordan and Mrs. Carrie Fenstermaker.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Chesney, of Crocker avenue, entertained a number of relatives and friends at dinner New Year's day, having as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Dan McCarte, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ahern and daughter Miss Madeline, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schibe and children, Jack and Dorothy Mae, Miss Susane McCarte, Mrs. Chas. McCarte, and Madame A. Tosie, of Catalina Island.

Miss Helen Reinhart, of Templeton avenue, entertained a group of her friends on Thursday evening of last week. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing whist and dancing, after which dainty refreshments were served to the following guests: Gladys Oakley, Mildred Mansfelt, Marion Mansfelt, Dorothy Eldrup, Gladys Eldrup, Myrtle Augustien, Elise Bodeker and Carmen Oguata.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Wilson, of Crocker avenue, entertained at their home on Saturday evening, December 21, in honor of Mrs. Wilson's mother, Mrs. O. Diethman, who became the bride of W. K. Godding, of Medford, Oregon, on Thursday of last week. The happy bride to be was the recipient of many lovely gifts. After a delightful evening refreshments were served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre and daughter Rose, Mr. and Mrs. H. Shade, Mrs. W. Skov, Mr. and Mrs. I. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Crowley, Mr. and Mrs. R. Wilson, and Harry, Howard, Walton, Roy, Doretta and George Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cosbie, of Bellevue avenue, entertained a group of relatives and friends New Year's eve in honor of their wedding anniversary. The evening was spent in dancing, and at midnight a tempting supper was served, the dining room being prettily decorated in greens and serpentine of many colors. Paper hats and horns were the favors for each guest. Those present who will long remember this delightful affair were Mr. and Mrs. W. Jespersen, Mr. and Mrs. J. Siber, Mr. and Mrs. R. Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hanlon and sons, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kenyon, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hanlon, Miss M. Murphy, Mrs. E. Graham and daughter Dorothy, A. Graham and Jack Cosbie.

ENTERTAINS IN HONOR OF TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Ed Quinn, of Evergreen avenue, entertained a group of children last Saturday afternoon in honor of Flora Regan, who celebrated her tenth birthday. A delightful afternoon was spent playing games. Little Miss Regan favored her guests with several piano selections. The table was prettily decorated in Christmas colors of red and green with candy baskets and paper hats to match. The afternoon will long be remembered by the following guests: Alice Ross, Edith Oliotti, Virginia Fellman, Jessie Augustien, Marjorie Nittle, Pauline Nittle and Sylvia Henriksen.

MRS. LILLIAN TACCHI PASSES AWAY AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Lillian Tacchi, beloved wife of Charles F. Tacchi, of Parkview avenue, passed away on Thursday of last week after a short illness. Mrs. Tacchi was the loving daughter of Angelo and Zaira Selmi, sister of Paul and Lloyd Selmi and Mrs. Olga Cuneo. She was a native of Colma, aged 30 years and 27 days.

Funeral services were held in San Francisco last Monday morning, December 30, thence to Perpetual Help church, where a requiem high mass was celebrated for the repose of her soul at 10 o'clock. Interment was at the Italian cemetery.

AN UP-TO-DATE SANTA CLAUS

The spirit of Christmas was exemplified by Mrs. Lillian Fletcher, president of the General Pershing P. T. A. of Daly City, and Santa Claus, impersonated by Chief Jack Doyle, in a manner that brought joy to many of the kiddies of Daly City.

A bazaar was held under the auspices of the General Pershing P. T. A., November 21, and a portion of the proceeds used to purchase children's toys and clothes, which were distributed by Mrs. Fletcher and Chief Doyle.

A great deal of credit is also due to Mrs. J. D. Altieri, social chairman of Colma, for her share in making this event a real success.

Next year the P. T. A. will endeavor to broaden its activities for Christmas time, and try to bring more Christmas joy to all the deserving families of the community.

The president and officers of General Pershing P. T. A. thank their members, co-workers, business men of the district, and neighbors for their generous co-operation in donations and personal attendance at our past functions. Trusting you will continue to assist our work, "One for all and all for one; a bigger and better Daly City," we wish you a happy New Year.

GENERAL PERSHING P. T. A.

STORY WRITING OPEN TO PUBLIC

Scheduled to organize on January 7, 8 and 9, classes in magazine short story fiction, writing, feature story writing, and news stories are announced by University of California Extension. Classes will meet at 7 and 8 o'clock of each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evening in San Francisco and Oakland.

Practical instruction will be offered by Gilbert G. Weigle, San Francisco writer. Interested persons are invited to visit at opening meetings of all classes.

OPERATOR SOUNDS ALARM THEN FLEES FOR HER LIFE

Sticking to her post while a fire swept the building, Miss Florence Armstrong, night telephone operator at Machias, Maine, refused to leave the Phoenix building, a three-story business block, where a fire had broken out, until she had called the chief of the local fire department and turned on the compressed air of the fire signal which was located on top of the Phoenix building. The fire had gained such headway that she was unable to sound but one or two rounds before she was forced to flee to the street in order to save her life. Besides the telephone exchange, the Phoenix building also contained the opera house, which was the largest assembly hall in town, and a number of stores and office buildings.

SOMETHING NEW

They Meant Well

A hard working cowboy died out west and his friends were at a loss to know what would be appropriate for his tombstone. Finally they decided on the following: "Here lies Tom Jones. He did his damndest. Angels could do no more."

Man dreams and promises much—but womanhood is never contented until she is mistress in her own home.

He: "I shall be miserable all the while I'm away from you." She: "Oh, if I could only be sure of that it would make me so happy."

Can't Enjoy It Then The Doctor: "And if he loses consciousness again, give him a teaspoonful of that brandy." The Patient's Wife: "While he's unconscious? Oh, doctor, he'd never forgive me."

Teacher: "What is your father's occupation?" Billie: "He's a worm imitator." Teacher: "Lands sakes, what on earth is that?" Billie: "He bores holes in furniture for an antique dealer."

BALDWIN — the Sootless Coal.

"Angus, I saw you put a bad quarter in the plate." "The heathen will na ken the difference."

Kindling and Block Wood.

Teacher: "Why are you late for school, James?" James: "I stopped two boys from fighting." Teacher: "That's fine. How did you do it?" James: I licked 'em both."

Nice Old Lady: "Why are you in prison, my good man?" Skumgullion: "For driving a car slow." Nice Old Lady: "You mean too fast." Skumgullion: "Naw. Too slow. The owner caught up to me."
